FEATURE ARTICLES

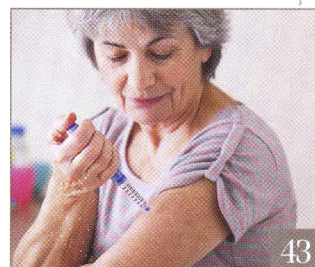

- 21 Partnership to Enhance Resident Outcomes for Community Living Center Residents With Dementia: Description of the Protocol and Preliminary Findings
This quality improvement project sought to improve care planning around preferences for life-sustaining treatments and daily care to promote quality of life, autonomy, and safety for Veterans with dementia.
Joan Carpenter, PhD, CRNP, ACHPN; Susan C. Miller, PhD; Ann M. Kolanowski, PhD, RN, FAAN; Michele J. Karel, PhD, ABPP; Vyjeyanthi S. Periyakoil, MD; Jill Lowery, PsyD; Cari Levy, MD, PhD; Anne E. Sales, PhD, RN; and Mary Ersek, PhD, RN

- 31 Hypercholesterolemia Management in Older Adults: A Scoping Review of Recent Evidence
The authors identified laboratory, intervention, and methodological gaps in the literature, leaving much to be examined in safely managing older adults with hypercholesterolemia, particularly contextual factors influencing adherence to lifestyle or pharmacological recommendations.
Harleah G. Buck, PhD, RN, FPCN, FAHA, FAAN; Stephen Mcghee, DNP, MSc, PGCE, RNT, RN, VR; Randall L. Polo, JD, MA; and Cheryl Zambroski, PhD, RN

- 43 Type 2 Diabetes Self-Management Barriers in Older Adults: An Integrative Review of the Qualitative Literature
Four themes emerged from this literature review: lack of knowledge and understanding, self-management implementation challenges, culture and language barriers, and health care providers as a perceived barrier, indicating the need for health care providers to improve support with a larger goal of improving outcomes and well-being in these patients.
Tina Saunders, MSN, RN, CNE, GCNS-BC
