

JOURNAL OF Gerontological Nursing®

FOR NURSING CARE OF OLDER ADULTS

วารสารใหม่ประจำเดือน
สิงหาคม....2559.....

Cited in MEDLINE/PubMed

Earn
CONTACT HOURS
SEE PAGE 24

Mixed emotions regarding care CNE ARTICLE

Older adults' perceptions of family caregiving

Improving the health and well-being of older adults in assisted living

Residents' perspectives of long-term care facilities

Weighing residents' choices and accompanying risks using a person-centered care approach

Group cohesion and continued participation in exercise programs

19675 bath

JOURNAL OF Gerontological Nursing®

FEATURE ARTICLES

24

Informal Care Provided by Family Caregivers: Experiences of Older Adults With Multimorbidity

Although thankful for their family's willingness to provide daily care and representation, older adults often felt they were a burden and wanted to be more involved in decision making and contact with health care providers.

Agneta Lindvall, RN; Jimmie Kristensson, PhD, RN; Ania Willman, PhD, RN, BEd; and Göran Holst, PhD, RN

24

34

Older Residents' Perspectives of Long-Term Care Facilities in China

The long-term care system in China is in its developmental stage, with residents' basic needs being met; however, improvements are needed in the delivery of quality care.

Jing Wang, MSN; Junqiao Wang, MSN; Yuling Cao, MSN; Shoumei Jia, PhD; and Bei Wu, PhD, FGSA, FAGHE

34

44

A Client-Centered Community Engagement Project: Improving the Health and Wellness of Older Adults in an Assisted Living Facility

Second-year nursing students performed a community assessment to develop appropriate and effective health promotion intervention strategies for residents of a community in Canada, finding a number of strengths as well as areas for improvement.

Madeleine Ballantyne-Rice, BSC; Kayla Chopp, BSC; Lisa Evans, BSC; Vanessa Ho, BSC; Wan Ping Hsiung, BSC; Marian Alexandra Simon, BSC; Kaiyu Wu, BSC; and Tam Truong Donnelly, PhD

44

CTIONS

12

Person-Centered Care

Honoring Individual Choice in Long-Term Residential Communities
When It Involves Risk: A Person-Centered Approach

Margaret Calkins, PhD; and Jennifer Brush, MA, CCC/SLP

18

Research Brief

Group Cohesion in a Formal Exercise Program Composed of Predominantly Older Men

Steven Daniels, MD; Nancy Wilke, OT; Kristyn Ertl, CCRC; Kathlyn Fletcher, MD; and Jeff Whittle, MD, MPH

DEPARTMENTS

4 Guest Editorial

7 Product News

8 News

32 CNE Quiz

