Bereavement in African American Mothers

EDITORIAL & UPDATES

FROM THE EDITOR

403 Wishes

In her final editorial, Nursing for Women's Health editor Mary Brucker has some wishes for readers.

Mary C. Brucker

RESEARCH & PRACTICE BRIEFS

405 Disparities in Opioid Overdose Deaths

Jennifer P. Hellwig

CLINICAL EVALUATION & IMPROVEMENT

412 Experiences of African American Mothers Following the Death of Their Infants

The experience of infant death for African American mothers elicits intense feelings of loss, guilt, and isolation, potentially diminishing their physical and psychological well-being.

Katina Jones, Barbara S. McAlister, Barbara K. Haas & Gloria Duke

422 Nurses' Knowledge of and Confidence in Perioperative Skills for Emergency Cesarean Birth

Perinatal nurses need evidence-based perioperative education to practice with the knowledge and confidence required to provide the highest-quality care during emergency cesarean birth.

Lacy L. Gee, Diana J. Behling & Nancy L. Sweeney

430 Evidence-Based Practice Model to Increase Human Papillomavirus Vaccine Uptake: A Stepwise Approach

Implementation of an evidence-based practice model to improve HPV vaccine uptake is an effective way to ensure completion of vaccine series and to eliminate missed clinical opportunities.

Amy Beck, Ann Bianchi & Darlene Showalter

REVIEWS

437 Racial and Ethnic Disparities in Health Care and Health Outcomes for Pregnant Women With Diabetes

Nurses and other health care providers can promote health equity among pregnant women with diabetes by implementing tailored interventions that address racial and ethnic disparities in maternal and neonatal health.

Ratchanok Phonyiam & Diane C. Berry

450 Emotional and Birth Outcomes Associated With Different Types of Prenatal Care for Women With Low Income

Evidence of improved birth outcomes with nontraditional prenatal care is mixed, but qualitative findings indicate that it is associated with better emotional outcomes for women with low income.

Cora Bruxvoort

IN PRACTICE

461 Dietary Information to Support a Healthy Pregnancy in Vietnamese Americans

The traditional diet of Vietnamese Americans is generally healthful, but there are some areas of concern with regard to nutritional optimization for pregnancy.

Vivian K. Dang & Lorraine O. Walker

471 The Risks, Invisibility, and Health Issues Facing Women Veterans Who Are Homeless

Care of women veterans who are homeless requires advocacy, sensitivity, and the wherewithal to address their complex health situations to deliver holistic, humanistic, individualized care.

Patricia L. Conard, Michael J. Keller & Myrna L. Armstrong
